Bible Claret – Liturgy Alive

Have you ever had or witnessed an encounter with God? Has God ever asked you (by nudge, whisper, vision, dream, request by a trusted friend, coincidence) to take some action? God is not distant from us. God is communicating through every moment of every day. Are we listening? Open? Present? Do we set aside intentional time to listen? What is your practice that equates to “climbing to the mountain top” to engage with God? God wants to be involved in every aspect our lives. Are there areas of your life that you have shut God out? In these days of Lenten journey, let us “on purpose” open our lives fully to God.

VERY FEW WORDS FROM DEACON BUDDY

The forgiveness of others is the vestibule of Heaven. You have to get rid of all resentment and condemnation of others, and not least, of self-condemnation and remorse. You have to forgive yourself, but you cannot forgive yourself sincerely until you have forgiven others first. Setting others free means setting yourself free, because resentment is really a form of attachment. It is a cosmic truth that it takes two to make a prisoner; a prisoner and a jailer. There is no such thing as being a prisoner on one's own account. Moreover, the jailer is as much a prisoner as his charge. When you hold a resentment against anyone, you are bound to that person by a metal chain. You are tied by a cosmic tie to the thing that you hate. The one person perhaps in the whole world whom you most dislike is the very one to whom you are attaching yourself by a hook that is stronger than steel. Is this what you wish? Is this the condition to which you desire to go on living? Remember, you belong to the thing with which you are linked in thought, and at some time or other, if that tie endures, the object of your resentment will be drawn again into your life, perhaps to work further havoc. No one can afford such a thing; and so you must cut all ties by a clear act of forgiveness. You must loose him and let him go. By forgiveness you set yourself free; you save your soul. And because the law of love works alike for one and all, you help to save his soul too. "For if you forgive others their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you..." (Matt. 6:14)
